MANAGER REPORT – Mackayleigh Shultz described what a day looked like for a lunch cook in the dietary department. Their day begins before 6:30 am by checking the hospital patient print from Epic. Food, drinks and silverware are put on the hospital trays and taken down at 7:00 am. They begin prepping the lunch meal which consists of two choices. The breakfast carts for both Special Care Units are taken to them. Preparation for that day's lunch meal and the next days are continued. At 8:30 am the cart from the hospital needs to be retrieved. The dishes are then done along with sanitation of the cart. At 9:00 am they start cooking the lunch meal. If possible a break is taken at 10:00 am. By 11:15 am all the lunch meal is ready in the steam table. At 11:25 am the hospital meal trays out and begin prep for the Special Care Units. At 11:45 pm the cook then goes to the Main Dining room asking each resident what they would like for their meal. At noon they begin serving lunch in the dining room. At 12:30 the SCU carts receive food and are taken within about 10 minutes to the unit dining rooms. When everyone is served, they go to each resident in the dining room asking if they need anything else. At 1:00 pm the dishes are done and trash taken out. At 1:30 pm they get a lunch break. At 2:00 pm they finish what is needed done for the next day's meal. There is a rotating cleaning schedule, refrigerator temperatures are charted twice daily, sanitizer buckets are checked three times each day at least, and dishwasher temperatures are charted three times daily. Gloves are worn if any food is touched. On a daily basis there are nine different diets to take care of and can be up to 16 different diets. Currently there are three different liquid consistencies. The dietary team has the ability to observe the residents' daily eating habits and notify the appropriate department to assist them. As the Manager, Mackayleigh monitors weight, recommend supplements and diets. She also plans the meals and helps activities with special events, provides food for certain meetings, snacks for workshops and trainings and orders the food for dietary. Each day three cooks and two dietary aides are needed. 5,641 meals were prepared and served in the month of July alone.
